SAVE THE DATES

The conference (5-6 Oct) includes a variety of presentations, workshops, and discussions on a wide range of QGIS topics.

The workshops day (7 oct) provides hands-on experience with specific QGIS tools and techniques - both for beginners and advanced users. The same day will also see a QField day where participants head outside to discover the local region in real fieldwork conditions.

Right after the conference, 29th QGIS Contributor Meeting (7-9 oct) will be held at the same venue. Contributor meetings bring together active members of the QGIS project to plan their work, hold face-to-face discussions and brainstorm new ideas.

An informal active outdoor day is also planned on 4 October, the perfect warm-up before the conference kicks off.

VENUE: CRAP SOGN GION

The event will be held at LAAX Galaaxy on Crap Sogn Gion, at 2,222 m above sea level, in the heart of the Swiss Alps.

Set right next to the Tectonic Arena Sardona UNESCO World Heritage Site, the venue offers panoramic views over the mountain landscape of the Surselva valley, one of the few Romansh- speaking regions in Switzerland.
